

The only two parameters that bend the optimal pacing shape

Read the bottom edge first: with no economy decay the optimum is even pacing for every exponent. Moving up the axis is the only way to make a positive split optimal, and larger p damps how far the splits spread.